SPI_031	SM5732	Chapel of Dunn, chapel, 300m SW of Oldhall house	n/a	Scheduled Monument	The monument consists of the remains of a post-medieval chapel built over a burial vault, still intact, which may belong to an older structure. The monument is of national importance as an example of a type of simple post-Reformation chapel typical of Northern Scotland. Its importance is increased by the fact that it overlies the remains of an earlier medieval structure.	3790.9	Within 5km	320237	956024
SPI_001	SM2235	Achies, broch	n/a	Scheduled Monument	Prehistoric domestic and defensive: broch.	1778.8	Within 5km	313999	955653
SPI_006	SM5413	St magnus' church, burial ground and hospital	n/a	Scheduled Monument	The monument consists of the remains of St Magnus' church, hospital and graveyard, situated on the farm of Spittal Mains. The monument is of national importance because it contains upstanding medieval ecclesiastical remains which can be documented, by a Charter of James III to William Sinclair, son of William Earl of Caithness, from 1476. The monument's importance is enhanced because it is the site of a hospital which was an important stage on two pilgrimage routes; the route N to St Magnus' in Orkney and that S to St Gilbert's at Dornoch.	1254.5	Within 5km	315880	954874

SPI_032	SM450	Gallow Hillock, cairn on Backlass Hill	n/a	Scheduled Monument	The monument is a prehistoric cairn visible as a grass covered mound. Historical mapping shows the presence of an old market stance, and it may be that the cairn was indeed reused as a gallows hill in the Middle Ages, as part of an area used for markets and the administration of justice. This monument is of national importance because of its potential to contribute to our understanding of prehistoric ritual and funerary practices: it is likely to contain at least one central burial as well as secondary burials dug into the mound.	4722.1	Within 5km	320492	954115
